Transparency in Supply Chain Disclosure

Robinson Helicopter Company, Inc., a California manufacturer, produces and procures almost all of the parts and components that go into our helicopters in the United States. We are strongly opposed to the use of forced, bonded, involuntary, prison or indentured labor. We have begun to undertake an evaluation of our supply chain to assess various compliance risks, including those related to slavery and human trafficking. Under the California Transparency in Supply Chains Act of 2010 we are required to disclose that:

While we do not currently verify, audit or require our suppliers certify that their products or services comply with local laws regarding slavery and human trafficking, we will continue to assess our supply chain for areas of improvement in eradicating slavery and human trafficking, and will continue to expect our suppliers and employees to do the same.

We do not currently maintain internal accountability standards and procedures for suppliers or contractors failing to meet company standards regarding slavery and human trafficking, however, we will seek ways to eliminate or mitigate these elements from our supply chain;

We are working on a training program for company employees and management who have direct responsibility for supply chain management regarding human trafficking and slavery to find areas of improvement in eradicating slavery and human trafficking, and will expect our suppliers to do the same.
